

Religious authorities have the final say in interpreting the country's laws.
An essential characteristic of democracy...